UNL Students Interested in Rural Nebraska Jobs/Internships

Exciting news!!! UNL students are interested in living and working in Rural Nebraska:

CNEDD staff recently participated in the Rural Futures Opportunities Career Fair, and visited with 18 UNL students who are either graduating and seeking jobs, or interested in learning about opportunities in Rural Nebraska through internships. Most student careers centered around agriculture (animal science, ag communication, beef production, veterinary medicine, etc), but the medical field was also of great interest.

We encourage you to talk to your local businesses to see if they are seeking permanent employees, or would consider a summer internship as a way to meet their workforce needs and attract young professionals to live in your rural community. Call or email today to receive contact information for these students. You can reach me at judy.petersen@cnedd.org or 402-340-0106.
